Today

With every rising of the sun

Think of your life as just begun.

The Past has cancelled and buried deep

All Yesterdays. There let them sleep.

Concern yourself with but Today.

Grasp it, and teach it to obey

Your will and plan. Since time began

Today has been the friend of man.

You and Today! A soul sublime

And the great heritage of time.

With God Himself to bind the twain,

Go forth, brave heart! Attain! Attain!

Class History

When September, '47 began, sixty-four eager freshmen came to an important chapter in their lives--that of entering the Cisne Community High School. Now, four years later, we look back and recall the highlights of each year.

Our first year began with a confusion of new names, new subjects, and such difficult terms as Mathematics, Algebra, English, and HOMEWORK. After a few weeks, however, we settled down into the old routine.

Our first class meeting was held to elect officers. They were elected as follows:

PRESIDENT: Dean Powell
VICE PRESIDENT: Artie Lane
SECRETARY AND TREASURER: Max Dye
REPORTER: Jackie Hayes
STUDENT COUNCIL: Herbie Miller and Bill Brubaker
SPONSOR: Mr. Meyer

Our first class party was a Halloween party, complete with such Halloween characters as witches, spooks, and goblins.

Our second party was a skating party at the Flora rink. Although several of us were slightly stiff and sore the next morning, we all managed to make it to school.

Several of the boys in our class were able to make the baseball and basketball teams their first year. They were Max Dye, Roy Eikleberry, Danny Williams, Dean Best, Dean Powell, Ovid Hicks, Bill Brubaker, and Frank Simmons.

Our Queen and King candidates for the year were Elaine Ellis and Franklin Simmons.

As we advanced into our Sophomore year, we lost several members, but gained Diane Clark, Joanne Chapman, Jack Kurtz, Allan Galbraith, Betty Hillard, Dennis Bowles, Cecil Neff, and Louise Eblin.

Class officers for the year were:

PRESIDENT: Roy Eikleberry
VICE PRESIDENT: Earl Dean Hillard
SECRETARY and TREASURER: Janis Anderson
REPORTER: Bill Brubaker
STUDENT COUNCIL: Elaine Ellis and Franklin Simmons
SPONSOR: Mrs. Webster

Class History

Our first class party was held November 22, at the Flora skating rink. Our skating ability had slightly improved over that of the previous year's.

Several more members of our class were added to the athletic teams. They were Don Hillard, Marvin Musgrave, Kenneth Loss, David Clem, Donnie Dye, and Melvin Elliot.

Our class was honored this year by having our candidates for Queen and King, Jackie Hayes and Max Dye, elected as the Queen and King of Cisne Community High School.

On May 16 we had our last Sophomore class party. It was a weiner roast held at the school. We played games outside and inside, thus making our social more fun.

Our very eventful Junior year was begun by electing the following officers:

PRESIDENT: Bill Brubaker
VICE PRESIDENT: Donnie Dye
SECRETARY: Jackie Hayes
TREASURER: Herbie Miller
STUDENT COUNCIL: Doris Pittman and Marvin Musgrave
REPORTER: Ethel Murphy
SPONSOR: Mrs. Thacker

New members enrolled in our class were Bill Porter and Betty Yocham.

One of the highlights of the year was our class play, "Gangway For Ghosts", given in November. Our directors were Miss Davis and Mr. Meyer. Members of the cast were: Ethel Murphy, Marvin Musgrave, Doris Pittman, Donnie Dye, Jackie Hayes, Janis Anderson, Barbara Galbraith, Joanne Chapman, David Clem, Bill Brubaker, Charles Gibson, Ola Spidel, Betty Barton, and Ovid Hicks.

Our class party, a skating party, was well attended. It was again held at the Flora skating rink.

The most important event of the year was the Junior-Senior Banquet. The banquet hall and gymnasium were decorated with a Hawaiian theme, with leis, snakes (imitation) and palm trees making the scene more realistic.

The Queen and King candidates were Louise Samford and David Clem. We were again honored by having one of our candidates, David Clem, elected as King of Cisne High School.

When we entered Cisne High School for our last year, we elected at our first class meeting the following officers:

President . . . . . Earl Dean Hillard
Vice-President. . . . . Darlene Attebury
Secretary . . . . . Kenneth Loss
Treasurer . . . . . Herbie Miller
Student Council. . . . . .Doris Sheridan,
. . . . . Earl Dean Hillard
Sponsor . . . . . Mr. Knowles

Doris Sheridan, Jack Kurtz, Marjorie Shannon, and Ruth Attebury were newcomers to our class this year.

Our class party, a hayride and wiener roast, was held in September. Nearly everyone in the class went, and all had a good time.

Earl Dean Hillard was added to the baseball team this year.

Our high school career will end with the Commencement and Baccalaureate services on May 27 and 28.

Class Will

We, the Senior Class of 1951, being of reasonably sound minds, and having withstood four hectic years of gathering knowledge in the realms of our old Alma Mater, do hereby originate this document, our Last Will and Testament, which although only literally of any value, may convey many memories to the beneficiaries mentioned therein.

To Mr. Clemens, we will a more co-operative student body and a civics class which can recall one or two American History incidents.

To Mr. Esarey, we will a bigger and better popcorn machine, so his F. F. A. boys can meet the demands of the people of the basketball games.

To Mr. Knowles, we will a powerful basketball squad composed of brawny six-footers who can outplay any other team in the Midland Trail Conference.

To Mr. Zimmerman, we will a big easy chair so that he may relax comfortably while collecting lunch money in the cafeteria.

To Mr. Thompson, we will a mechanical robot which can decode and and grade all themes received from students who can't resist whispering in study hall.

To Mrs. Thacker, we will a Latin class than can conjugate the verb "to be" quicker than you can say "Mica, mica, parva, stella."

To Mrs. Lee, we will a 36-hour day, so that she can grade all her English II papers and keep the library (and her apartment) in apple pie order.

To Mrs. Simpson, we will a home economics class composed of girls who never wear blue jeans or chew gum.

To Mrs. Webster, we will a bookkeeping class which is intelligent enough to understand the tranactions of E. R. White's laundry.

To Miss Hoffeld, we will a systematic register in which she can record the names of those people who wish to go to the ballgames on the bus.

Janis Anderson wills a gas mask to Karl Caldwell, who is planning to take chemistry next year.

Darline Atteberry wills her driving skill to Patty Eikleberry.

Ruth Atteberry wills her ability to keep out of trouble to Alan Jones.

Betty Ann Barnes wills her white boots to Norma Conard and Shirley Leathers, providing that they take turns wearing them.

Betty Barton wills her quiet ways to Garnet Worlow, providing that Garnet will use them occasionally.

Joy Berry wills her knowledge of Robert E. Lee to Beverly Obrecht.

Dean Best wills his extra height to Leon Spicer.

Phyllis Brown wills her brilliant fuchsia shoestrings to Joyce Tolbert.

Lela Mae Bullock wills her skill for cooking potatoes to Marilyn Norris.

Shirley Burton wills a bottle of arsenic to the biology student who left fish scales (Ugh!) in the sink of her chem. lab. table.

Joanne Champman wills her admiration for Mr. Zimmerman to Eleanor Carter. Diane Clark wills her love for cats to Carolyn Bratton.

David Clem wills his "wittle wed wagon" to Bradley Henson.

Donnie Dye wills a gallon of H_2SO_4 and a bottle of NaOH to Clifton Burton, providing that he will use them wisely.

Max Dye wills his "purty purple shirt" to Mr. Clemens, so that he may have an extra one.

Class Will

Roy Eikleberry wills his witty remarks in English class to Charlie Long.

Melvin Elliot wills his fondness for stogie cigars to Gene Porter.

Elaine Ellis wills her gym shoes to Jean Eikleberry, who needs a new pair desperately.

Barbara Galbraith wills her giggles to Joan Goffinett, providing she will use them only in Mr. Thompson's absence.

Charles Gibson wills his use of the family car for personal purposes to Bill Stark.

Jackie Hayes wills her habit of going to the movies every Sunday night to Pauline Murphy.

Earl Hillard wills his bright-colored sox and pretty neckties to Jim Gibbs.

Barbara Hilliard wills her loud voice to Peggy Dawn Thomas.

Donne Hilliard wills his need for a pair of suspenders to Mr. Zimmerman.

Albert Kiger wills his position as president of the "Stackroom Stinkers" to Jim Richardson.

Norma Kiger wills all her chewing gum to Shirley Burgess, providing that she will refrain from chewing it in Mr. Zimmerman's presence.

Jack Kurtz wills all his bookkeeping problems to any Junior who will be brave enough to tackle that subject next year.

Kenny Loss wills a fine-toothed comb, almost like new, to Jack Clutter.

Lorna Mayo wills her extra weight to Sue Hunt.

Herbie Miller wills her battered, but beloved (?) civics workbook to Jim Stanley.

Ethel Murphy wills her ability to get along with Mrs. Simpson to all the girls who need it.

Marvin Musgrave wills his ability to bewitch the girls to Duey Milner.

Doris Pittman wills her dimples to Bob Johnson.

Dean Powell wills his highly decorated Chevrolet to Dean Thompson.

Marjorie Shannon wills a can of pork and beans to Angie Young.

Doris Sheridan wills her size 1 1/2 shoes to Harlan Watson.

Frank Simmons wills his stylish coiffure to Junior Elliot.

Danny Williams wills his brother, Jackie Dale, to a certain Freshman girl.

Betty Jo Yocham wills her name cards to anyone who will take them.

IN WITNESS THEREOF, WE, THE SENIOR CLASS, have set our hands and seal this, the twenty sixth day of January, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-One.

Class Prophecy

Recently, while he was touring Europe with wife and daughter, Mr. Ernie Knowles was introduced to a famous prophet and foreseer of the future, Malisha Codoutsky. Mr. Knowles, always one to make friends quickly, lost no time in striking up a beautiful friendship with the Swami. Naturally, there were many things Mr. Knowles consulted Malish about, such as the future of the hydrogen bomb, the next world crisis, whether Dewey would run in 1952, etc. Being so fond of all the C. C. H. S. Seniors of 1951, Mr. Knowles asked Malisha what lay in store for each member of that class. In answer to his query, the Swami replied:

"Well, if you could see a 1960 newspaper, some of these items might be found in it."

After graduating from C. C. H. S., Lela Mae Bullock studied chemistry abroad for five years. She is now employed as head chemist in the laboratories of Hinklevoort and Dinkelbaum of Sydney, Australia. Her most recent discovery, H_2X, which prevents measles from showing, has gained her world-wide acclaim.

Max Dye, always an admirer of Buicks, got his first big break as a windshield wiper expert in a Buick factory. It was his job to see that the arc made by the windshield wiper on one side of the windshield equaled the arc made by the other windshield wiper on the other side. He was recently promoted from that position, and has further shown his mechanical ability by transforming the Buick 8 to the Buick 16.

Earl Dean Hillard, only a short time ago one of C. C. H. S.' most brilliant students, is now the offical minister to Capetown, Africa. Immediately following his graduation from C. C. H. S., he and Ruth Schell eloped to Santiago, Chile. They are constantly making world tours, and each of their children was born on a different continent.

Betty Ann Barnes and Doris Sheridan studied modeling in New York, after they graduated from high school. Now, as two of the most highly paid Powers models, they have proved that both the tall girl and the small girl have a place in the fashion world. They are both fabulously wealthy and live together in a swank apartment on Fifth Avenue. To everyone's surprise, neither of them has yet married.

Everyone thought Phyllis Brown would marry a millionaire, but instead she married a poor, but very handsome, school teacher. It was love at first sight and romance overpowered common sense. They live in a two-room house near Johnsonville, quite far from the streetcar that runs to town. Phyllis' hope chest full of linens, that she had before she was married, probably came in handy.

Joy Berry, once a snare drummer with the C. C. H. S. band, decided that she would devote the rest of her life to the art of music. She worked and studied very hard, sometimes skipping meals to get in extra practice. But she did achieve the goal toward which she worked, for she is now with Phil Spitalny's All-Girl Orchestra. Phil is so proud of her that he lets her play a solo at each performance the orchestra makes.

Donnie Dye and Albert Kiger, in the interest of science, have devised a most interesting time exchange for busy people. For instance, if you need extra time for Tuesday night activities, you simply take a few hours from Wednesday and write an I. O. U. to Wednesday. At the end of the month, you'll be in such a jumble you won't know whether it's May or December and that's your problem. But really, it's quite a unique system.

Betty Barton, after working at the Ritz Theater for a year or so, became so interested in her work that she went into business for herself. She is now a theater magnate with a large chain of different theaters throughout the midwest.

Class Prophecy

Her theaters are different because they don't show movies; they only sell popcorn. She uses the proceeds from the popcorn sales to pay alimony to her three husbands.

Dean Best has become the world's champion lightweight fighter. It took him only a short time to develop his amazing technique. Simply stated, it is as follows: While his tall opponent is looking for him, Dean climbs on the ropes and gives forth with a hard right to the jaw and that usually fixes the opponent.

Shirley Burton, who was always an ambitious girl during her years at C. C. H. S., studied opera after she graduated. She is now very famous, having gained recognition by singing "The Flight of the Bumblebee" in performances all over the world. The only dark shadow on her career was caused when she held a high note ten minutes too long. She then had to recuperate for ten months.

Herbie Miller, after having a tragic disappointment in one of her love affairs, devoted her life to being a marriage counselor. Helping others always came naturally to Herbie and as a result, she has set many a quarrelsome but loving couple on the path to the altar. Recently, Herbie married an eligible young bachelor and, in a statement to the papers, said she'd given up her work to see if the advice she'd been giving really worked.

Joanne Chapman, who always wanted to be in radio, finally realized her ambitions. Soon after she graduated from C. C. H. S., she went to school and studied diligently with a renowned instructor. Then one day she was notified that she was to replace an actor on a certain program. You've probably guessed by now: Joanne's voice is the laughing voice on "The Shadow."

Norma Kiger began writing ghost stories soon after she finished school at C. C. H. S. Most of the ones she wrote were such creepy killer-dillers that she had great difficulty in selling them. One day as she was writing an especially scary tale, she heard a rattle at the door. The noise frightened her so badly that she hid in a closet and hasn't come out since.

It seems that no one had heard much about Frank Simmons until just a short time ago when the magazine "Time" carried a feature concerning him. The article stated that Frank had just received a patent on a new car called the "Speed-O-Mat", which enabled him to sleep longer before going to work, since the car could travel at a speed of 320 1/4 M. P. H. Incidentally, his job is testing desks to see if they are the right height to rest the feet on comfortably.

Diane Clark, upon graduating from C. C. H. S., found a job writing songs for Spike Jones. The song which made her famous was a sequel to "The Thing" and was titled "Hmmmmm." She never runs out of ideas for songs because she obtains them from such a variety of sources. Her latest hit is "Roll Over, Ma, You're Snorin' in My Ear!"

Ilene Pennington went to Hollywood soon after she finished school. She was hired by one of the leading studios without even having to make a screen test. In her first picture, she had the leading role. One director told reporters that Ilene was the most photogenic girl he's ever seen. Recently, though, many natives of Hollywood have decided that Ilene must be a little queer, since she has been married to the same man for 3 1/2 years.

When Barbara Galbraith consulted her physician soon after she graduated, he informed her that her body was in a weakened condition and advised that she take up some hobby involving exercise. So Barbara became a toe dancer. Soon she made her dancing a profession. Once at a performance, she became so tired that, for a split second, she stood flat on both feet. As a result, she was scorned by her public. Recently, rumors had it that Barbara was preparing to make a comeback.

Danny Williams became a very industrious farmer after receiving his diploma from C. C. H. S. His first farm was only a three-acre tract of land near Elm River.

Class Prophecy

But Danny always had good luck with his crops, so he bought more and more and more land. He now owns nearly all of southern Illinois. Danny told a friend that if a swarm of locusts or a hailstorm ever demolished his crops, that he'd just retire and live comfortably on the millions he's already made.

Betty Jo Yocham, after she graduated from C. C. H. S., went right to work in a greeting card firm. She spent two years "learning the ropes" and then went into business for herself. In no time at all, she established a thriving enterprise. Her fastest selling card carries this verse: "Happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you, happy birthday dear one, happy birthday to you. It's here four times, so let it do, for this year and the next three, too."

Marjorie Shannon, who was always so much fun during her high school days, went into show business soon after graduating from C. C. H. S. She is now the nation's leading commedienne, and she has practically ruined the careers of Judy Canova and Eve Arden. She has so many radio and television shows that she now has more sponsors than Arthur Godfrey.

That industrious young man, Kenny Loss, recently received an award from President Truman for being one of the most outstanding businessmen in America. You see, Kenny began the manufacture of "Dids", the candy which is the same as "Duds" except "Dids" have already done it. Kenny is now planning to retire and do nothing but supervise the "Dids" factory by remote control.

Charles Gibson found himself a most interesting occupation soon after he received his diploma from C. C. H. S. He travels the nation singing the praises of Hadacol and has stimulated business so much that Senator Le Blanc has made him Vice-President in charge of bottle caps. Charles orginated that amazing slogan that says: "Remember that Hadacol spelled backward is Locadah."

Roy Eikleberry joined the St. Louis Browns early in 1952. He became quite famous for hitting home runs but there is one sad story connected with Roy's career: Each time he hit the ball, he knocked it so far that it couldn't be found. Because Roy lost so many balls, the ball club went bankrupt. Roy now makes a living by drawing cartoons for the Saturday Evening Post.

After taking English IV in high school, and learning all those big words, Jackie Hayes decided to put her thoughts on paper. By doing so, she has become one of the leading poets of the land. One of her recent poems, "Song of the Drippy Faucet," or "Why Plumbers Go Crazy," was printed in "Wow" magazine. As a sideline, Jackie takes care of Max and their small son, Herkimer.

Elaine Ellis went to New York with the intentions of studying nursing, but soon after she arrived there she met a wealthy young man, and changed her mind about studying. She and the young man were married and became very prominent in social circles. Elaine is now such a socialite that she even gives parties for Mimi, her French Poodle and invites all of Mimi's little poodle friends.

Ruth Atteberry, who was deeply inspired by her high school civics course, went to Vienna, Italy, and studied government for six years. She received four degrees in social science and learned every tiny detail of how a government functions. Ruth now teaches civics and economics to eager (?) barefooted students in a Tennessee high school.

Melvin Elliot built a small laboratory after he graduated, and for a long time, he did nothing but perform many secret experiments there. One day he finally revealed to the public the fact that he had been trying to perfect a wreck-proof car and had at last succeeded. But there is one tiny detail that Melvin will tell no one. That is: Why did he want to make such a car?

Barbara Hilliard entered the business world soon after she received her diploma from C. C. H. S. She is now the sole owner of a factory that makes squeakers to be used in Teddy bears. Barbara's factory shows great variety in the types of squeakers it produces. For instance, her factory not only makes squeakers for both baby and adult bears, but it has also marketed a squeaker which sings the "Tennessee Waltz" in bear language.

Darline Atteberry became a traveling saleswoman early in 1952. Her first job, selling refrigerators to the Eskimos, took her to northern Alaska, where she met her future husband. Yes, Darlene fell in love with and married an Eskimo named Ug Blug. He is a contractor who builds igloos for his neighbors, and is very prosperous. Darline has helped him attain his success by making fur-lined parkas for Eskimo children.

David Clem, who always aspired to become an engineer, realized his hopes after several years of diligent study. He has supervised the building of many beautiful structures, has built a skyscraper in his hometown of Cisne, and has built a canal connecting Elm River with the Ohio River. Recently he received great acclaim when he completed a super-atomic eight-lane suspension bridge which spans the Atlantic. This beautiful bridge also has walking lanes for pedestrians who enjoy l-o-n-g walks.

For several years no one heard anything about Dean Powell. It was rumored that he had journeyed into darkest Africa and had been swallowed up in the vast jungles, but no one really believed that that had happened. Then just a few days ago, the real truth became known. It was revealed that Dean has achieved greater heights than any other graduate in the class of '51. Yes, Dean is a window washer on the 113th story of the Empire State Building.

Janis Anderson, who was never inclined to get up early, joined the WAC where, because of her musical talent, she was promptly made chief bugler. She then had to get up at 5 A. M. and blow reveille. After six years in the WAC, she came back to civilian life and became a multi-billionaire by perfecting and manufacturing a small pocket alarm clock.

Marvin Musgrave, Cisne's "Young Man With a Horn", kept right on playing (his cornet, of course) until he was even more famous than Harry James. But alas, poor Marvin could not endure the topsy-turvy life that he led. In great sorrow, everyone witnessed his departure from this wicked world, but recently someone heard that Gabriel had been replaced. . . . . .

When Lorna Mayo graduated from C. C. H. S., she hadn't decided what type of work she would do. So for two years, she held several various positions as a stenographer, a scrub-woman, etc. Then she decided to become a jockey. She soon established herself as one of the best jockeys of the era. After riding several Kentucky Derby winners, she bought a fine horse farm and is now sole owner of "Mayo's Merry Meadows," the most ritzy stables in the United States.

Doris Pittman, who was always interested in sports, practiced various aspects of swimming and diving until she was quite an expert. Only last year, Doris swam the English Channel. When she reached the shores of England, a swarthy seaman offered to drive her to a nearby hotel. She was so intrigued by him that she decided to stay in England a while---and no one has seen her since.

Soon after their graduation from C. C. H. S., Donne Hilliard and Jack Kurtz bought a restaurant in a seacost city in the state of Washington. They named it "Hillbilly Haven." The specialties on the menu are "Donne's Deep-sea Delicacies" and "Kurtz Kwik-Kook Kookies." When asked about the success of their restaurant, both Jack and Donne declare that it is due to the fact that the chorus girls in the floor show are imported directly from Hawaii.

Ethel Murphy became a noted instructor in home economics. She has traveled at home and abroad lecturing on the position of the homemaker in this modern world. Recently she invented something which will be quite a boon to homemakers. It is a photo-electric device which will have husbands home in time for meals. Statistics show that Ethel's invention hasn't failed yet.
